

Method: Choosing a Statistical Test

1. Identify the type of outcome variable.
2. Determine the number of groups being compared.
3. Check whether the observations are paired.
4. Verify the distributional assumptions of the candidate test.
5. Select the test that matches all of the answers above.